

FACT SHEET: PAROLEE SERVICES NETWORK PROGRAM

Program Overview

The Parolee Services Network (PSN) consists of Community-based alcohol and drug treatment services for eligible parolees throughout the County. Funding is made possible by the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (CDCR).

The Los Angeles County PSN project was implemented in 1991. Treatment availability in Los Angeles County includes residential treatment services, outpatient counseling, and sober living environments.

Parolees are placed into an appropriate treatment and recovery program either from community parole systems or immediately upon release from prison. Referral into the program must be made by the participant's assigned parole agent.

The program provides 180 days of treatment and recovery services which includes a combination of residential, outpatient and sober living services.

Target population

Services are available for male and female parolees (including homeless parolees) from the California Rehabilitation Center at Norco and also parolees referred from local parole field offices.

To be eligible for the program, parolees must have a history of substance abuse and must not have any violent offenses.

Goals of the program:

- Promote long-term sobriety
- Support community re-entry
- Reduce criminal recidivism
